SELCERT: Skills Development of certification for trainers of synchronous electronic learning

What is SELCERT about?

An Erasmus+ project that aims at developing a qualification framework for trainers that deliver Synchronous Electronic Learning.

Online training also known as computer-based training, synchronous electronic learning, distance learning or e-learning is a form of instruction that takes place through the use of ICT and the internet. These few past years have revealed many benefits of electronic learning in terms of time saving and accessibility.

The SELCERT project aims at enhancing quality electronic learning. Quality e-learning requires special training skills. These skills will be created and supported by SELCERT through the development of a qualification (ISO certified) for trainers that deliver Synchronous Electronic Learning accompanied with training materials and tool, as well as a certification.

In order to achieve this quality enhancement, the SELCERT partners will develop the following deliverables:

- A qualification framework for trainers that analyze, design, develop, implement and evaluate online trainings
- Curricula, materials and digital methodological tools to train the web trainers
- A digital assessment tool
- A digital resource centre networking tool
- A multimedia guide on how to adapt different techniques on different platforms
- A best practices guide for the delivery of online learning

The qualification framework will cover the knowledge, skills and competences of a trainer of synchronous electronic learning. It will cover the aspects of the work that change or being added due to the electronic nature of training. For this matter several activities and meetings were implemented. In detail, a Desk Research Activity was conducted successfully by the partners. That led to the creation of a Focus Groups Guide by the lead of the Project Result 1, MMC Management Centre Ltd of Cyprus. The focus groups guide was employed in the Focus Groups Implementation phase whereby all the partners successfully organized focus groups in their countries with trainers. Now, the consortium is at the phase of Analysing the results and towards the Composition of the qualification framework.

This gave the opportunity to all the partners to get more familiarized with all the project results of the project (as they were all presented by the lead organisations), the dissemination and quality assurance aspects and get up-to date with the work that was already conducted by then.

Upcoming activities

- The Composition of the qualification framework is scheduled to be ready by the next TPM whereby the partners will have the opportunity to give feedback and then finalize it, reaching the conclusion of PR1.
